Introduction

The annual Community, Technical, and Junior College Directory is recognized as the most authoritative and up-to-date publication of names, addresses, enrollments, and other facts and figures about the institutions it covers. It provides easy access to important information about individual colleges and traces trends on enrollments, staffing, tuitions, and fees. It is used by Congress, federal agencies, state education departments, colleges, and universities. Book vendors have standing orders for hundreds of copies as soon as it is off the press.

The AACJC Directory provides its users with the only comprehensive list of names and addresses of two-year colleges, as well as names of their chief executive officers. It also provides the accreditation status of each institution. Enrollment totals—part-time and full-time—are recorded for fall of the current year (1983-84), and for fall of the previous academic year (1982-83). There are also statistics concerning community service/adult education enrollments. Users can find out how many faculty, staff, and administrators each institution employs and can compare tuition and fees—from college to college and state to state.

One section of the Directory summarizes and analyzes the data collected this year and makes comparisons with other years. These analyses are useful in helping to determine trends and patterns in growth and development.

Hundreds of hours go into the production of the Directory. Work begins in August, when questionnaires are sent to all accredited two-year institutions in this country and to member institutions in other countries. The next several months are spent correcting and updating data and keying it into the computers. Parts of the Directory go to the typesetter in January, and the rest in February. The result of all this work is a Directory that is accurate and current, thanks to the cooperation and responsible reporting of the participating colleges.

I believe that with its new format and more comprehensive content this publication will serve its users even better than in the past. If it raises new questions about community, technical, and junior colleges—and answers others—it will have served a most beneficial purpose.

Adopted by the AACJC Board of Directors December 2, 1983

American Association of Community and Junior Colleges

The American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, headquartered in Washington, D.C., is the only organization whose sole purpose is to represent the interests of the 1,219 public and private community, technical, and junior colleges of the nation.

The mission of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges is to exert leadership, act as advocate, and provide services in support of community, technical, and junior colleges, as these institutions deliver accessible educational opportunities designed to address the needs of the individuals, organizations, and communities forming their constituencies.

Advocacy

AACJC continues to reach out to governmental decision makers at the national, state, and local levels on behalf of the mission and needs of community, technical, and junior colleges, their staffs, and their students. AACJC has been particularly effective in communicating with federal officials, members of Congress, and other leaders regarding the value of community, technical, and junior colleges.

The Association of Community College Trustees and AACJC have formed the Joint Commission on Federal Relations to address with "one voice, one agenda" the Congress, federal agencies, and other national organizations. Such advocacy is helping to ensure a fair share of federal funding and student financial aid.

In cooperation with ACCT, AACJC has undertaken a series of initiatives aimed at "Putting America Back to Work" through closer working relationships between business, industry, labor, government, and the colleges. New coalitions have been established with the American Council on Education, American Association of State Colleges and Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Vocational Association, Education Commission of the States, Council on Occupational Education, many groups involved in adult education, and the Joint Committee on Telecommunications. Through their linkages, AACJC is able to represent the interests of community colleges more effectively.

Advocacy also involves telling the two-year college story to the general public by providing information to the media through press releases, public service radio and television announcements, publications, and staff contact.

Leadership

Since 1920, when the American Association of Junior Colleges was founded, college presidents and administrators have relied on AACJC. The name was changed in 1972 to reflect more accurately its membership. For the most part, histories of higher education have tended to ignore community colleges; AACJC has been a leader in bringing the achievements of two-year colleges into the light of day by helping to develop literature the academic world respects.

The theme of AACJC, Opportunity with Excellence, recognizes that quality teaching and learning in community colleges reaches out to serve the many, not just the privileged few. Now, at a time when the United States must reevaluate its priorities in terms of painful economic realities, AACJC has called for a comprehensive national policy on human resource development to serve the needs of a "nation at risk."

Service

Advocacy is a service. Leadership is a service. But in its dedication to the advancement of community, technical, and junior colleges, AACJC provides much more.

As the most comprehensive organization in the U.S. representing community-based postsecondary institutions, AACJC serves as:

- A means of identifying and giving national recognition to emerging leaders for the future—individuals, institutions, and ideas.
- The only community, technical, and junior college voice for hundreds of national meetings, committees, councils, and commissions.
- A respected reference for appointment recommendations to membership on federal commissions, advisory bodies, and other notable organizations.

- A forum for members' institutional and personal views that will influence the future of education and the nation.
- A singular source of information collected by AACJC and unavailable elsewhere (this Directory, for example).
- A sounding board and clearinghouse for cost-effective, innovative ideas and people.
- A source of technical assistance for member colleges.

Many of these services are provided through a variety of media of communication, such as:

- Annual AACJC Convention and Workshops—to promote the exchange of ideas and information among some 2,500 delegates from colleges nationwide. During the year, other conferences, workshops, and assemblies offer opportunities for special interest groups to come together, particularly for professional development.
- AACJC Letter—the only national weekly newsletter exclusively for community, technical, and junior colleges. Personally edited by AACJC President Dale Parnell, this weekly publication is for the busy executive who wants authoritative information in a hurry. Alternate issues of the Letter keep you up to date on current legislative issues and federal policies. Editor Frank Mensel, AACJC's vice president for federal relations, monitors bills, attends hearings, develops testimony on pending legislation, and analyzes policies that affect community, technical, and junior colleges. Federal Focus lets you know when you should write to your congressional representatives on bills of interest.
- Community and Junior College Journal—offers readable, worthwhile information about exemplary programs, practices, and people in articles by presidents, administrators, and professors sharing their best ideas (eight issues per year).
- Community, Technical, and Junior College Directory—updated annually, this indispensable source of essential information contains data gathered by AACJC directly from the colleges and other sources. AACJC research analysts are available year-round to answer questions from Association members, news media, and other organizations.
- Directory of Administrators—first published in 1984, this reference document contains names of administrative staff at 1,219 accredited two-year colleges. It is an invaluable resource for businesses, governmental agencies, job seekers, and anyone else wanting to contact the right person at the right place.
- Special publications—produced with the needs of college executives and staff in mind, these include a series of handy, concise Pocket Readers, monographs, reports, indicator briefs based on statistical data, legislative and legal briefs, bulletins, and brochures.

In addition, the Association serves as headquarters for a liaison network involving the entire AACJC constituency, which includes:

- Community, technical, and junior college presidents, administrators, and staff.
- State college associations and state administrators.
- Affiliated councils.

Governance

Board of Directors

The Association is governed by a 31-member Board of Directors. The Board meets three times annually, in different parts of the country, to develop and monitor the policy framework within which the AACJC carries out its mission. Standing committees of the Board meet periodically during the year and provide for much of the indepth work of the Board. Current committees, appointed by the chairman of the Board, are:

- Executive Committee—responsible for personnel matters, finance, and for emergency situations. Bernard J. Luskin is chairman and Judith S. Eaton is vice chairman. Members include the immediate past chairman, Harold D. McAninch, and chairs of four standing committees. Association officers who meet with the Executive Committee are Dale Parnell, president and chief executive officer; James W. White, vice president for membership and financial services and treasurer of the Association; Connie Sutton, vice president for professional services and secretary to the Association; and James F. Gollattscheck, vice president for information services and editor-in-chief.
- Committee on Federal Relations—responsible for government-related matters in cooperation with the Association of Community College Trustees. Joshua L. Smith is chairman. Members are Kathleen F. Arns, Dwight E. Davis, Eileen T. Farley, George D. Fields, Jr., Richard K. Greenfield, and James C. Young. (This group, along with the trustees, forms the Joint Commission on Federal Relations.)
- Committee on Association Vitality and Publications—responsible for long-range planning and publications oversight. Michael E. Crawford is chairman. Members are Joseph P. Cosand, Kay Elledge-Heimer, Raymond E. Joslin, James Tatum, and James L. Wattenbarger. Bernard J. Luskin is an ex officio member, and James F. Gollattscheck from AACJC is staff.
- Committee on Directors and Membership Services—responsible for internal operations of the Board, membership services, and Board nominations. John W. Casey is chairman. Members are A. Robert DeHart, James Kraby, Yvonne Kennedy, R. Jan LeCroy, and Mary M. Norman. Harold D. McAninch is ex officio member and James W. White from AACJC is staff.

- Ad Hoc Committee on Redefinition of the Associate Degree—Harold D. McAninch is chairman. Members are Joseph P. Cosand, Mary M. Norman, and Richard K. Greenfield.

Board members normally serve terms of three years each, with one-third of the Board elected each year. Eighteen directors are representatives of institutions, elected by the Board; six are representatives of the affiliated councils, elected by the AACJC membership; and one member is the immediate past chairman of the Board, elected by the Board. By constitutional authority, the majority of the Board must be chief executive officers. Nominations of the institutional representatives are made by the Committee on Directors and Membership Services. While continually open to receive recommendations, the Committee contacts the institutional members in the early fall, seeking recommendations for the following year. The Committee seeks persons capable and willing to bring dedicated and creative leadership to the Association and to the Board. With the recommendations from the field, together with its own experience, the Committee meets in the late fall to develop a slate of multiple nominations. Additional nominations can be made from the field following the Committee's report. The name of any such person, qualified to be a member of the Board, is added to the annual ballot when supported by letters from at least 50 official institutional representatives.

Annual elections, by mail ballot, are conducted no later than April 15 of each year. Each member institution is authorized one ballot to be completed by the official institutional representative.

Further information about the Board of Directors may be obtained from the president or secretary of the Association.

Officers

There are five officers of the Association. The chairman and vice chairman of the Board are elected by the Board of Directors each spring to serve one year—July 1 through June 30. The president of the Association is appointed by the Board to serve for a time designated by the Board. The secretary and treasurer of the Association are designated by the president with the approval of the Board.

Current officers (1983-84) are:

Chairman of the Board of Directors
Bernard J. Luskin

Vice Chairman of the Board of Directors
Judith S. Eaton

President and Chief Executive Officer
Dale Parnell

Treasurer and Vice President
James W. White

Secretary and Vice President
Connie Sutton

Commissions

Three commissions have been created by the Board to provide guidance in specific areas of concern to the Association. Commission members are appointed by the chairman of the Board and normally serve terms of three years.

- The Joint Commission on Federal Relations replaces the former Committee on Governmental Relations. The Joint Commission was formed by AACJC and the Association of Community College Trustees to unify the agenda of the two-year colleges in working with Congress and the federal agencies. Sixteen presidents, trustees, and state executives make up this "grass roots" voice of community colleges on national policy. Commission chairman is Joshua L. Smith, president of Borough of Manhattan Community College, New York.
- The Commission on Small/Rural Community Colleges, composed of 12 chief executive officers from member institutions, focuses attention on the needs and concerns of small and rural colleges. Robert A. Anderson, Jr., president of New Mexico Junior College, New Mexico, is chairman.
- The Commission on Urban Community Colleges was established in 1983 to advise the president and Board of AACJC on matters of concern to community colleges serving urban communities. Fifteen chief executive officers from member institutions make up the commission. Paul A. Elsner, chancellor of The Maricopa Colleges, Arizona, is chairman.

President's Academy

The President's Academy devotes attention to the roles, welfare, and professional development of chief executive officers of AACJC member institutions. It provides opportunities to exchange ideas, a program for inservice professional development, and a means of expressing concerns of chief executive officers. Inquiries may be directed to Byron N. McClenney, Academy chairman and chancellor of Alamo Community College District, Texas.

Association of Community College Trustees

AACJC maintains close and cordial working relationships with the Association of Community College Trustees. ACCT serves more than 4,000 trustees, who shape policy and community support for some 750 American two-year colleges. Through its annual convention, other conferences and seminars, and varied information services, ACCT helps to equip governing boards and their members to oversee such diverse functions as systems management, collective bargaining, budget processes, performance evaluations, board retreats, and administrative searches. The ACCT president for 1983-84 is Sheila M. Korhammer, trustee, Northampton County Area Community College, Pennsylvania. William H. Meardy is executive director.

Affiliated Councils

AACJC has introduced a system of councils through which the common interests of their members can be served. Councils provide individuals with the means to affiliate with the Association beyond official institutional representation. Within a flexible organizational arrangement, councils are encouraged to take initiatives in pursuing proposals and activities in support of Association and council goals.

Through a formal process, councils are recognized as affiliates for a specified period of time—usually three years. A regular review process established by the AACJC Board of Directors allows for extension of the recognition period. Each council is assigned at least one AACJC Board member and one member of the AACJC staff to act as liaisons. In addition, the Associations's Constitution and Bylaws provide for six members of the AACJC Board to be elected by the institutional membership to serve as official council representatives on the Board.

Thirteen councils are presently affiliated with the Association:

American Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges

The American Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges (AAWCJC) is one of the largest and most responsive organizations working for the concerns of women in education. Formed in 1973, the Association represents its members on a state and ten-region basis. Steady increases in female students, staff, and educational professionals has had a dynamic effect on the growth and professional activities of AAWCJC. Key benefits of AAWCJC membership are a quarterly newsletter, a job bank, and a variety of professional development activities for women in two-year colleges at the local, state, and regional levels.

President: Jo-Ann W. Terry, Dean of Educational Services, Wayne County Community College, 801 West Fort Street, Detroit, Michigan 48226; (313) 496-2810.

Community College Humanities Association

The Community College Humanities Association (CCHA) is dedicated to strengthening the humanities in community, technical, and junior colleges. CCHA serves as a catalyst in defining the issues facing humanities faculty and administrators, in finding solutions to problems in the field, and in establishing a communication network for all humanists. Special seminars, five annual regional meetings, a tri-annual newsletter, and an annual journal provide for the exchange of ideas and information, support the professional work of humanities faculty, and encourage scholarly activity in the humanistic disciplines.

Chairman: Donald D. Schmeltekopf, Professor of Philosophy, Union County College, 1033 Springfield Avenue, Cranford, New Jersey 07016; (201) 276-2600.

Council for Occupational Education

The Council for Occupational Education (COE) is concerned with issues, trends, and legislation related to postsecondary occupational education, human resource development, and the creation of technical training programs to reduce manpower shortages. COE represents faculty, mid-level administrators, deans, and college presidents, as well as individuals from business, organized labor, the military, and government. It sponsors two national professional development meetings yearly, publishes occasional newsletters, distributes the quarterly Technology Review Journal, prepares legislation for consideration by Congress, and encourages members to publish and disseminate materials on occupational education in two-year colleges.

President: William C. Warren, Dean of Instruction, Southern Maine Vocational Technical Institute, 1983–84 Intern, Association of Community College Trustees, 6920 Little River Turnpike, Suite A, Annandale, Virginia 22003; (703) 941-0770.

Council of Universities and Colleges

The purpose of the Council of Universities and Colleges (CUC) is to promote peer relationships and stimulate publication and research among professors housed in college and university graduate schools. Members of the council are specialists in community, technical, and junior college issues (often having substantial experience as two-year college educators) and regard service to the applied field as one of their major responsibilities. Since these individuals spend a large portion of their time training personnel to function within two-year colleges, the Council also sees itself as an instrument to support professional development in the field. The association between CUC members and AACJC has been constant since the founding meeting of AACJC in 1920.

President: W. Robert Sullins, Division of Educational and Administrative Services, College of Education, Virginia Polytechnic and State University, Blacksburg, Virginia 24061; (703) 961-5642.

National Council on Black American Affairs

In 1972, the Council on Black American Affairs (CBAA) was established to provide a national body through which faculty, students, administrators, and nonteaching personnel could affiliate to foster more effective education and employment of black people. CBAA, working through its four regions, focuses on matters involving curricula, human resource development, data collection, information dissemination, and pursuing solutions to problems in education that confront black people. The following are Council priorities: (1) professional development of black leadership within colleges; (2) expansion of supportive services for low-income students; and (3) implementation of effective affirmative action programs.

Chairperson: Carl Crawford, Provost, North Campus, Broward Community College, 1000 Coconut Creek Boulevard, Coconut Creek, Florida 33066; (305) 973-2202.

National Council for Community Relations

The National Council for Community Relations (NCCR) is a professional organization for specialists in college relations in two-year colleges in the U.S. and Canada. It was founded in 1974 to provide special services for people who share the tasks of marketing the college and communicating with its many publics. NCCR members work in a variety of information-related areas: media relations, editing and publications, coordination of campus and community events, high school/college relations, consumer information, alumni and governmental relations. Members include public information practitioners, higher-level administrators, and college presidents.

President: Linda Connelly, Public Information Officer, Fort Steilacoom Community College, 9401 Farwest Drive, S.W., Tacoma, Washington 98498; (206) 964-6500.

National Council for Research and Planning

The National Council for Research and Planning (NCRP) provides a network for expression and exchange on matters of institutional management and advises AACJC on policy issues relating to research and information-based management. The Council also serves as a national forum for planning, coordinating, and conducting activities that promote research and informaton-based decision making in postsecondary, community-based institutions. NCRP products include the Community College Journal for Research and Planning, focusing on institutional management; Parameters, a bimonthly newsletter; position papers on policy issues; and a yearly series of workshops and forums.

President: Arthur Cohen, Director, ERIC Clearinghouse for Junior Colleges, 8118 Math Sciences Building, University of California at Los Angeles, Los Angeles, California 90024; (213) 825-3931.

National Council for Resource Development

The purpose of the National Council for Resource Development (NCRD) is to assist two-year colleges in the acquisition of financial resources adequate to support their educational programs. To achieve this, the Council provides the institutions with: (1) assistance and information to encourage higher levels of financial support from both public and private sectors; (2) a vehicle for cooperation and communication in addressing issues and problems in the area of resource development; and (3) programs and activities designed to enhance the level of skill with which the profession of resource development is practiced in two-year institutions.

President: Judson H. Flower, President, Miles Community College, 2715 Dickinson Street, Miles City, Montana 59301; (406) 232-3031.

National Council for Staff, Program and Organizational Development

The mission of the National Council for Staff, Program and Organizational Development (NCSPOD) is to promote staff and organization development in two-year colleges. NCSPOD offers a broad range of services and opportunities to its members, including the Network newsletter, a yearly conference and regional skill-building workshops, research and data dissemination, and a human resources referral directory. The Council is dedicated to: (1) developing innovative, effective approaches to staff, program, and organization development; (2) maintaining communication among organizations concerned with such efforts; (3) fostering research and evaluation in the field; and (4) generating means for self-development of persons interested in staff, program, and organization development.

Interpreting the Data

In September 1983 the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges collected data directly from the 1,219 community, technical, and junior colleges that make up the field of regionally accredited, associate degree-granting colleges. Each institution received a preprinted, computer-generated form showing the figures reported by the college for the previous year, and each was asked to enter corresponding data for fall 1983. Explanations for increases or decreases over 10 percent were requested from each college.

The results of this annual survey are reported by institution in Table I, and are tabulated by state in Tables II, III, and IV. For some institutions enrollment and other data are reported by campus; for others, the data are aggregate totals and are reported at the district office level.

For the first time, the AACJC data office utilized its own computer system to collect and analyze data. This system was designed to increase the accuracy of the data collect process.

It is important to note that 1982 enrollment data in Table A, B, and C are revised figures from those in the 1983 Directory, due to institutional additions and deletions. Table D does not reflect these changes, and the figures reported are compared against the previous year's Directory.

An alphabetical listing of colleges, cross-referenced by state is available in the appendix. To locate a college that may have reorganized, or changed its name, please see "Changes in Institutions." The inclusion of a college one year and not the next does not necessarily mean it has ceased to exist. We ask state-level officials each fall to indicate to us which institutions should be listed in this Directory. The exclusion of a college from the 1984 Directory could be due to changes in accreditation status or type of program.

Enrollment during the 1983 opening fall term in community, technical, and junior colleges reported a slight decrease over the 1982 academic year. Trends toward increased enrollment that were clearly visible in the 1960s now appear to have leveled off. Proportionately, the number of institutions has leveled off as well (see Table D). Total 1983 unduplicated headcount enrollment for credit stands at 4,947,975. When compared against 1982's fall term headcount enrollment for credit of 4,971,053, this represents a loss of 23,073 students, or a decline of .46 percent (see Table A).

State comparisons are important when examining the reasons for enrollment fluctuations. Student populations in four states (California, Illinois, Michigan, North Carolina) that rank in the top ten by enrollments declined in the fall of 1983 by a combined total of 141,927 students. This drop accounts for a national percentage change of almost 3 percent.

It was among the full-time students that community, technical, and junior colleges experienced the largest decline. A closer look at the data shows that the number of full-time students decreased by 19,080, or a decline of 1.03 percent, while the part-time segment declined by only .13 percent. Public institutions followed closely with the changes in national data; total headcount figures can be found in Table B. Independent institutions, however, showed a gain; total headcount enrollment for credit stands at 148,207, an increase of 5.38 percent, or an additional 7,561 students (see Table C).

The Directory also lists enrollment in service, recreational, and life enrichment programs. This noncredit participation for academic year 1982–83 is reported in Table E as community education enrollment. Enrollment differences in this category from year to year do not necessarily represent a decline in participation. Since many colleges do not routinely collect these figures, this item is often not completed on the Directory questionnaire form.

The American Association of Community and Junior Colleges appreciates the response of the institutions and the opportunity of presenting this data to the public. Over the years, the AACJC Directory has become a valuable reference document for many users. That value is attributed to the excellent cooperation received from the institutions listed here and the state-level officials who assisted AACJC in identifying the colleges that should be served.

Any questions regarding the data or the methodology can be referred to the AACJC data office.

ERRATA

1984 Community, Technical, and Junior College Directory

For the first time, the AACJC data collection office utilized its own computer system to collect and analyze data for the Directory. In the process we unexpectedly encountered several "bugs" in the system, which inevitably led to delays in programming and, in turn, upset the entire production schedule. Unfortunately, a few bugs remained.

Rather than delay distribution of this publication any longer, we have decided to issue the Directory noting some of the errors and problems. Except for these few errors, all data as presented here are accurate, based on information submitted by colleges prior to March 1, 1984. We have also taken this opportunity to note a few textual errors as well.

We have learned much from this experience and have set a target date of February 1, 1985, for publication of an improved 1985 Directory.

James F. Gollattscheck
Vice President for Information Services
